

Home

The EllisLab Employee Handbook

What follows is a tale of making—not managing—and building—not bragging. The handbook is a collection of ideas, processes, and practices that we as a company have decided work for us and should work for all new employees.

If you’re new here, this is a good place to start reading to figure out what you should be doing, and how you should be doing it. If you’ve been here a while, feel free to brush up on what you don’t know or don’t remember.

Also, this is one big git repository and just a heap of text files, as such you are highly encouraged to modify any of this if you disagree vehemently enough. Your changes will be the beginning of a conversation, one we’re all happy to have, that could change and shape our company. And yes, we really mean that, change is important to us at EllisLab and it doesn’t just come from the top, it comes from everyone.

Contents:

Return to top

The EllisLab Employee Handbook – Copyright © 2011–2016, EllisLab

search eecms docs

General Info

How we Develop

How We Write

Providing Tech Support

Sales & Accounts

Internal Documentation Todo List