

Formatting Information

This guide explains how to format contributions to the special issue covering the shared task SANTA.

File format: MS Word, preferably docx.

In general, we follow the guidelines of the CA journal, described here:
<http://culturalanalytics.org/about/submission-guidelines/>

To keep it simple: Please use a blank template and the built-in styles “Normal” and “Heading 1-3”. Emphasis should be done in italic.

All tables and figures should have captions.

Examples

Annotation guidelines contain examples. Please enumerate your examples with parentheses like shown below. If you need to mark segments in the example, use square brackets like shown in three. If necessary, enumerate them with subscripts at the opening and closing bracket (e.g., to refer to these spans in the text). Do not use colors.

- (1) I am an example.
- (2) I am an example that is longer than a [single line]. I am an example that is longer than a single line. I am an example that is longer than a single line.
- (3) I am a really long example in which spans have been annotated. I am a really long example in which spans [have been annotated. I am a really long example in which spans have been annotated. I am a really long example in which spans have been annotated. I am a really long example in which spans have been annotated. I am a really long example in which spans have been annotated.]₁ I am a really long example in which spans have been annotated. [I am a really long example]₂ in which spans have been annotated. I am a really long example in which spans have been annotated. I am a really long example in which spans have been annotated. I am a really long example in which spans have been annotated. I am a really long example in which spans have been annotated. I am a really long example in which spans have been annotated.

In Example (2), we have shown that this is an example. Span 1 in Example (3) shows that ...